20-44 DRAFT REGISTRATION TO BE FEB. 16

President Sets Date For Third Call To Bolster Nation's Military Forces.

OTHERS NOT AFFECTED

No Mention Made of 18-20 or 45-65 Age Groups; All Supplies Delivered.

Mansfield and Richland county men between the ages of 20 and 44 who have not already registered under the selective service law will be required to register Feb. 16 along with men in that age group throughout the nation and its territories in the country's second great registration of manpower for military service, President Roosevelt proclaimed today

In his proclamation setting the date for registration throughout the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, the president made no mention of the other two age groups which are required to register under congressional amendments to the selective service act—the 18 to 20 group and the 45 to 65 group.

The Feb. 16 registration will include all male citizens and aliens who were born on or after Feb. 17, 1897, and on or before Dec. 31, 1921. Those from 21 to 35 who registered in October, 1940, and last July 1, will not be required to register again, draft board clerks said.

Clerks emphasized, however, that men already registered must report any changes of address to their boards so they can be reached at any time.

Men in the 20 to 44 age classification will be subject to call for military service. Those under 20 and past 45 are expected to be exempt from active armed duty, at least until congress revises the present law.

The county's three draft boards already have registered 10,000 men in the 21-35 age group and it was estimated that nearly 6,000 more will be registered Feb. 16.

Tire Rationing Starts Today In Mansfield, Nation

Mansfield, Richland county and the rest of the nation went under the first rationing program of world war No. 2 today

Approximately 900 tire rationing boards in Ohio hung out "open for business" signs. They will determine whether doctors, nurses, veterinarians, ambulances, fire trucks and police patrol wagons will get new tires and tubes. The average motorist is not eligible.

Only a handful of the approximately 2,000,000 motorists in Ohio who have been purchasing tires at an unrestrained rate—until sale was frozen several weeks ago, will be able to buy the 5,053 passenger tires and 9,969 truck and bus tires that may be sold in the state during January. For the same period, 14,198 tubes may be sold.

Richland county's January ration is 61 passenger car tires and 61 tubes, and 119 truck-bus tires and 99 tubes.

The first major task tackled today by James Bailey, newly-elected county co-ordinator of tire rationing, and an advisory committee, was a breakdown of the county quota to fix quotas for the var-

IT'S PATRIOTIC TO SELL

As times tighten, it becomes more and more patriotic to pass along useable discards to neighbors and friends. New merchandise will be higher, scarcer. Taxes will force closer buying. That's why you should be willing to sell serviceable discards. It will help your neighbors, and you can buy defense bonds with the cash.

1941 Traffic Takes As Many Lives In Ohio As Japs Did In Their Sneak Attack On Pearl Harbor Last December

Traffic fatalities in Richland county increased more than 50 percent in 1941 while the state-wide toll was up 23 percent, an Associated Press survey revealed today. Thirty-one died in county mishaps last year as compared with 20 the year before.

Accidents on Ohio streets and highways took 2,373 lives last year, about the same as the Japs took on Dec. 7 in their attack on Pearl Harbor. The state toll represented an increase of 443 over 1940.

Considering the increase in motor traffic due to defense activities, the state increase was not unusual. Col. Lynn Black, state highway patrol superintendent, said. He pointed out that the number of automobiles and trucks on streets and highways increased tremendously in 1941.

One county—Noble—came through the entire year without a fatality. On the other end of the list was Cuyahoga county, center of Ohio defense, with 247 deaths.

Fatalities in Erie county, where heavier traffic accompanied the birth of the Plum Brook ordnance plant, jumped from 17 to 36. Strangely enough, Huron county, which lies near Plum Brook, showed a decrease from 25 deaths in 1940 to 18 last year.

CITY SHIVERS AS MERCURY HITS 1 BELOW

Temperature Takes Dive After Snow; 14 Auto Crashes Are Reported In Area.

Mansfield shivered today in the grip of sub-zero temperatures which arrived over the week-end on the heels of this area's first substantial snowfall of the winter.

The mercury plummeted from an average 23 degree mark to one below zero this morning in the city and even lower in nearby communities Lucas and other Richland county towns reported four below zero readings The official reading here was the lowest in Ohio.

The weatherman held out little promise of any relief from the current cold wave predicting fair and continued cold weather for tonight and tomorrow.

The inch and a half of snow which started falling late Saturday was blamed by police for 14 automobile accidents reported in the city yesterday.

William Coy, 41, of 29 Orchard street, escaped death early this morning by jumping from his auto stalled on the Erie railroad tracks on North Main street just before a westbound freight train struck it.

City street workers were called out late Saturday to salt and sand dangerous and icy spots on streets and hills but despite their efforts 14 collisions were reported. Only two minor injuries were reported in these accidents, however.

In other Mansfield area accidents, five persons received minor cuts and bruises but reduced traffic volume and extra driving caution kept the area from being listed on the state traffic toll which claimed six lives.

Temperatures dropped fastest yesterday from 3 to 5 p. m., falling from 25 to 15 degrees in that short period. Highest point for yesterday was 25 degrees with the low this morning at one below zero. The average for the past 48 hours was 17.2 degrees, 13 degrees below the 16-year average.

Many Mansfield drivers found their autos frozen for the first time this winter and housewives found ice instead of cream when they opened the tops of milk bottles. City buses were far behind schedule as traffic was

NEEDS $8,230

Red Cross Predicts It Will Reach Goal This Week.

Just $8,230.18 short of a $30,000 emergency war fund, the Red Cross today made another appeal to Mansfielders and residents of Richland county for contributions and they predicted that the drive would be completed by the end of the week.

W. J. Spreng, drive chairman, said that $1,769.82 had been reported since Saturday when the last totals were compiled. Of this money, $800 was from a contribution made yesterday by the Sons of Italy, fraternal organization.

Besides this donation the Sons of Italy are planning to turn over proceeds from a dance it will stage Jan. 17.

U. S. Offers Auto Industry Five Billions In Arms Order

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The automobile industry today received army and navy offers of $5,000,000,000 worth of new armament orders, the first step in a huge plan to convert that industry to war production.

The industry already has been ordered to cease all civilian production by Feb. 1, making acceptance of the army-navy offer a virtual certainty. The plan will boost the industry's stake in the war production drive to $9,000,000,000.

The automobile manufacturers' association gave an advance pledge of wholehearted cooperation "in letter and spirit" with whatever demands made by the government.

The announcement of the new orders for the industry was made by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Undersecretary of Navy James E. Forrestal a few hours before labor and management officials of the automobile industry met here today to plan for conversion of their production lines for the output of war weapons. The $5,000,000,000 offer will be presented at that conference.

The conference will be under the direction of OPM Co-directors William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman.

The joint army-navy announcement said the military items involved in the projected $5,000,000,000 orders, representing the "combined immediate requirements of the two services," were such that they could be accepted not only by the big motor companies but by "many varied smaller parts and accessories companies." Machine tools were cited as one of the principal unfilled requirements on which rapid production is needed for the armed forces.

HAS PROPOSAL

Dominican President To Seek Joint War Declaration.

CIUDAD TRUYILLO, Dominican Republic—(UP)—Former President Rafael L. Trujillo, leading force in the Dominican government, said today his country's delegation at the Rio De Janeiro conference of foreign ministers would propose a joint declaration of war on the Axis nations by the American republics.

The Dominican republic is one of the 10 American nations that have declared war on Germany, Italy and Japan.

Foreign Minister Arturo Despradel will head the Dominican delegation to the Rio De Janeiro conference.

Bowman Residents Make New Plea To Curb Train Noises

More than 100 residents near the Bowman street railroad crossings submitted a written appeal to city council today to take steps in the elimination of excessive "whistle-blowing and bell-ringing" and other noise-making practices of trains stopping in their vicinity.

In a letter signed by B. Louise Atkins, 321 Bowman street, who acted for more than 100 residents who earlier petitioned council for action on the matter, councilmen were asked to enforce existing city ordinances which would prohibit the excessive noise.

The latest letter listed the following nuisances:

1—The continuous ringing of one train bell for 25 minutes.

2—A train whistle blowing 42 blasts at one "setting."

3—Trains giving 28 whistle blasts—never less than ten—generally a minimum of 18.

4—A train standing on a track near the homes for one full hour

REPORT FDR TO ASK 18 BILLION FOR ARMY, NAVY

Congress Expects Request For Special Appropriations at Session Today.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U P)— President Roosevelt will deliver his annual message to congress in person at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The 77th congress, convening today to open its second session at noon heard reports that President Roosevelt probably would request between $15,000,000,000 and $18,000,000,000 in special appropriations for the army and navy.

This would represent a start toward Mr. Roosevelt's announced goal of stepping up war expenditures to the $50,000,000,000-a-year-rate by June 30, 1943—a sum equal to about half the estimated national income for next year.

Leaders on Capitol Hill appeared uncertain whether the new session would receive the regular budget first or hear the president's message on the state of the union. A decision on this was expected to be reached at a White House conference today, and presidential aides indicated that Mr. Roosevelt would speak either tomorrow or Wednesday.

The chief executive spent a good part of his week-end drafting the address, which may disclose some further details on the campaign the grand alliance of nations has planned to crush the Axis.

Speaking of the anticipated request for military funds, informed legislators said that last-minute conferences might boost the total even beyond $18,000,000,000. They pointed out that additional appropriations would be requested later as production of equipment was speeded up. Mr. Roosevelt's plan of pouring half of the national income into war expenditures would entail monthly outlays reaching $4,000,000,000 by June 30, 1943.

Most legislators believed that war-time secrecy would be clamped down upon the military budget, resulting in requests for lump sum appropriations in general categories, rather than the usual specific allocation for planes, guns, tanks and other items.

M'Arthur's Men Kill 700, Avoid Jaws of Pincer

Defenders Report Serious Setback For Nipponese; Corregidor Continues To Fight Off Planes; Allies Mapping New Strategy.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The war department announced today that General Douglas MacArthur's Philippine army repulsed a Japanese attack with heavy enemy losses, estimating that at least 700 of the enemy were killed.

American-Filipino losses were described in a communique as relatively small.

The war department said "this was one of the most serious reverses suffered by the Japanese invaders since the war began."

The Japanese attack took place northwest of Manila.

At the same time the garrison of Corregidor fortress shot down four more Japanese bombers in beating off the fourth successive air attack on the fortress.

This raised officially reported enemy plane losses over Corregidor to 15. The communique said four additional Japanese planes were hit but their destruction was not confirmed.

Fifty-two bombers took part in the attack, which continued three hours

Both the land battle on Luzon island and the latest air raid on Corregidor took place Sunday.

General MacArthur reported that his forces crushed the attack, presumably in Pampanga province northwest of Manila, in escaping an attempted enemy trap.

The Japanese, MacArthur said, undertook to crush the greatly outnumbered defenders between two invading forces operating as a pincers from north and south. But he added that when the trap was closed "American and Philippine troops were not in the jaws."

The communique said that Japanese strategy thus failed in this instance, necessitating the frontal attack which likewise failed

The attack on Corregidor, like the onslaught of the previous day in which four enemy planes were shot down, failed to inflict material damage and casualties were said to be slight

As far as could be deduced from dispatches from the Far East, the Japanese were in feverish haste to complete their conquest of the Philippines in order to release a large number of troops for major operations elsewhere. And as far as the evidence went, General Douglas MacArthur was giving the enemy no cooperation.

Reports from British Burma explained why the Japanese high command might be thinking in terms of other theaters. Large Allied forces were concentrating there and intensive Allied air activity was noted, with the Japanese coming off decidedly second best, according to a Rangoon communique.

In Allied hands, Burma represents a major potential threat to Japan's grandiose plans for domination of the south Pacific. A smashing drive eastward would cut across the top of Thailand and French Indo-China, placing the Allies squarely in the rear of the Japanese forces now driving furiously southward down the narrow Malay peninsula toward Singapore It would also put the Allies in a position to neutralize

HELP: Chinese Veterans On Way To Help Defend Singapore

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Veteran Chinese troops are believed to be on their way to Malaya to help block the Japanese drive toward Singapore, British sources said today.

These sources said such an assignment for Chinese forces was a likely first step of the unified southwest Pacific command under General Sir Archibald P. Wavell.

They said the call on Chinese manpower was for aid in a crisis until Britain and the United States can rush men and arms to the Far East. It probably was worked out during the recent visits to Chungking of Wavell and Major General George H. Brett, United States army air corps chief who is Wavell's aide in the unified command, they added.

Chinese forces already have bolstered the British in Burma, on the flank of the Malayan front.

BREAK: Hint Finns Ready To Withdraw From The War

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler, still steadily losing the Russian footholds for which he paid so dearly and harassed at the rear by news stirring of the conquered peoples, was confronted today by a hint of Finnish defection.

Officially the Finns never professed partnership in the European "crusade" Hitler's term for the war with Russia. They insisted that they were fighting only for recovery of territory vital to protection of their national life.

Now, according to the British news agency Reuters, the influential Helsinki newspaper Suomen Sossialidemokbaati says the time "seems suitable opportunity to break off military operations."

Sharing importance with the possibility of Finnish withdrawal from the war was the growing strain between Germany and the Vichy government and between them and the people of France. These tensions have become more and more apparent since the United States entered the war.

Some aspect of this complex of political stress appeared today, to have resulted in the death of Pierre Pucheu, who as minister of interior shared with Vice Premier Admiral Darlan the control of unoccupied France's armed forces. Pucheu was head of the police—National Surete (secret police) and mobile guard.

One of the most conspicuous collaborationists of Vichy, Pucheu and an obscure functionary named Paringuall, presumably of the inese boys were subject to exemption from the draft if they cared to apply for it. None did. Any of them could have had a nice cushy job sitting in an office chair—and still have worn the uniform. None did. Like Teddy's brood of boys (the eldest of whom is now a brigadier general) they all wanted duty with troops and they all have it.

Since they were small kids I have from time to time had chances to observe this crop of youngsters. Barring the natural bubbling over of boys (without which none is likely to be worth much) and some bad judgment, mostly due to inexperience, they rate almost as high as examples of the best we have in stock in these models as they do in appearance. And the latter is tops.

Turning from this and other special cases to look over the "run of the draft" which is daily joining the colors by thousands—all men called from our youth by a most vigorous selection and without regard to wealth, politics or social standing—and you have about as perfect an example of a democratic army and navy as history provides.

The Germans and the Japs are driven by fanaticism or a cruel ruthless discipline. When we elected to raise our armies on the selective service system, we went the whole way to the other extreme to rely solely on patriotism and high principle.

In such circumstances, what a blow to our whole defense system it would have been to have had any of these sons of the president fumble his obligation, or slide out of it in some easy way.

None did. On the contrary each moved as far toward danger as his rather limited choice would permit.

It should do as much to strengthen the faith of both parents and sons in the fairness of our system as any other single thing that has happened.

COURT SETS UP PLAN TO DEAL WITH JUVENILES

Offenders To Be Placed In Private Homes To Help Rehabilitate Selves.

Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer said today he had obtained a $500 appropriation from county commissioners to set up a new juvenile court plan whereby youthful offenders who have no serious charge against them will be placed in private homes to help them rehabilitate themselves.

The small appropriation will enable the court to give the plan a trial and if it works satisfactorily it will be expanded when more funds are available, Judge Cramer said He requested only $500 to launch the program this year.

Judge Cramer said it may also be possible to augment the county funds with contributions from parents who are interested in seeing their children get a new start in life

The funds will be used to help pay the board and room bills for children placed in private homes in the county Most of the youngsters can earn a part of their living expenses by doing chores around the house, but during the school term they have less time for outside work, Judge Cramer said

The court will contact county residents, preferably in villages in rural areas, who are willing to cooperate with juvenile authorities by taking boys and girls into their homes. In some cases, the young people may be able to earn all of their expenses, if not, the court will draw on its funds for the balance which may be $2 or $3 a week. Judge Cramer explained.

The plan has been tried successfully in larger Ohio cities and it can be counted on to help solve the delinquency problem here, he said.

"If we can keep two boys a year from getting out of hand beyond saving, it will be a good investment," Judge Cramer added

The plan will in no way change the court's practice of sending habitual offenders to state industrial schools in Lancaster and Delaware. There are a number of cases, however, in which the boy or girl needs only a change of environment and some work to do to keep them out of trouble, and in such cases it would do more harm than good to send them to penal institutions, the court pointed out

STEEL TO MEET '42 WAR NEEDS

Magazine Says Production To Be Boosted as Needs Increase.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND— Steel capacity, entering the new year, is deemed sufficient to provide as much tonnage as can be fashioned into war needs, with additional production to be brought into action as needs increase, the magazine Steel said today.

The spirit of the industry is all that can be desired, both of management and labor, Steel declared and nothing will be allowed to interfere with production of the maximum tonnage other factors will allow.

Widening applications of allocations in the steel market indicates a more orderly distribution ahead, the publication said, and the industry definitely will be able to produce a vastly greater quantity of steel in 1942 than can be fabricated and otherwise consumed for war purposes.

In addition, it was indicated that enough steel will be available for other essential uses as well as for export to countries dependent upon America.

Railroads have a large number of freight cars on order which builders have been unable to deliver because of slow supply of steel. Despite this, however, the carriers plan to buy 115,000 cars and 974 locomotives in 1942.

GET INTERVIEW FOR SCHOOL JOB

47 Mansfield Youths Eligible For Paid Training Class.

Having successfully passed a mechanical aptitude examination given last week, 47 Mansfield area youths will be interviewed tomorrow to determine whether they are qualified for openings in a paid defense training school maintained by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in Canton

C W. Handley, Ohio employment service manager in Mansfield, said today that grading of 120 test papers showed that the 47 were eligible for the positions.

If Robert Browne, employment service worker in charge of providing trainees for the school, finds through the interview that the youths are in position to accept training, they will be enrolled in a three-months paid course and then will be ready for jobs in the Canton Westinghouse naval ordnance plant

STRANDED SOLDIERS FIND WARM REFUGE IN PENNSYLVANIA HOME

(By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH — Saturday night's snow storm spoiled their trip home, but the warm hospitality they found in Pennsylvania made up for it, eight privates from Canton, O., agreed today.

They were en route home from Fort Eustis, Va., in a chartered station wagon—which cost each $18 of his $21 paycheck Friday—for a brief visit when the car crashed into a swerving trailer near East McKeesport. Thus, they were still 100 miles from home and 400 miles from camp.

Roy Davis and his wife invited them in, and when army officers instructed them to get some rest and return to camp, the Davises converted their six-room apartment into a dormitory for the soldiers. The Davises bunked on the kitchen floor.

Early Sunday morning, they turned out and gave the privates a big breakfast, during which they consumed two and a half dozen eggs, two pounds of bacon, two quarts of milk, two cans of orange juice, five pots of coffee and an undetermined amount of cookies and sandwiches.

The soldiers—Alfred C. Allman, Lester Marmet, Willam Jones, Elden I. Zurcher, Robert Miller, Roland Oyster, Kenneth R. Stone and Joseph Studeny—agreed that the Davises "certainly treated us swell."

PARK GROUP TO HOLD MEETING

John Todd Association To Study Land Option Proposal.

To consider the possibility of acquiring options on more land, members of the John Todd Park association will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the Hedges school.

Glen Robinson, association secretary, said today that the land under consideration was south of Home avenue and east of the Children's home and is adjacent to lands already held by the association in a valley east of the Children's home

Although unsupported by the city, now the association eventually hopes to provide Mansfield with still another park, Robinson said.

"Got any remnants?"

City officials are wondering if the roof of the municipal building will be strong enough for the defense program. Not that the roof will be expected to withstand bombings but because a 189-foot vertical antenna is to be erected for the police radio. Some officials fear that the roof will have to be reinforced to hold the weight of the antenna which is being purchased to help protect the police communications system. The present horizontal antenna is believed to be vulnerable to attack by saboteurs.

When a truck load of pigs went in a ditch as the result of a collision with an automobile near Nova yesterday afternoon, between 25 and 30 little porkers escaped and began to hoof it to market. The driver of the truck, unhurt, was kept busy rounding up his charges and taking them to a nearby farm for safekeeping until picked up by another truck bound for the Akron market Squealing and running around on the highway, the pigs enjoyed their brief respite from the dinner table as they eluded their captors, affording highway patrolmen much amusement before they were finally rounded up.

Vern Williams, Mansfield R. D. 4, thought he had lost $150 worth of musical instruments yesterday until he found a Good Samaritan had the situation well in hand. Williams' car overturned near Lucas and when he went back to it after going home for help he found a $100 banjo and a $50 guitar missing from the rear seat. He reported to Sheriff Frank E. Robinson that the instruments were stolen. A little later Richard Swartzel, 281 Rowland avenue, told police he found the banjo and guitar in the car and took them home for safe keeping until the owner was found.

PROPOSAL TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE HOUSE

Plan Would Place All States East of Mississippi In Same Zone.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Establishment of a new time system that would put all states east of the Mississippi river in the Eastern Standard Time zone was proposed today by Rep. Donald H. McLean, R., N. J., as congress prepared to consider President Roosevelt's request for national daylight saving time.

Mr. Roosevelt last summer requested authority to establish daylight saving time in such areas of the nation as he deemed necessary in order to conserve power. The house interstate commerce committee held hearings on the request but no action was taken. Last week Mr. Roosevelt renewed it.

Chairman Clarence F. Lea, D., Calif., said the committee would consider the matter tomorrow. The committee is opposed to a blanket grant of authority to Mr. Roosevelt to prescribe daylight saving time wherever he deems it necessary and favors its establishment by legislative edict.

McLean said he would introduce a bill to replace the present four zone time system by a three zone plan that would eliminate the confusion resulting from two sets of time east of the Mississippi.

McLean's plan would include in the eastern time zone all states between the Mississippi and a line formed by the western boundaries of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas; and in a western time zone all states from that line to the Pacific.

The present demarcation between the eastern and central time zones is on a line running from a point slightly east of Chicago, through Ft. Wayne, Ind., Cincinnati, O., a point slightly west of Charleston, W. Va., Chattanooga, Tenn, Montgomery, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla.

Otis Skinner, Veteran Actor, Producer Dies

NEW YORK—(U P)—Otis Skinner, whose 65 years as an actor, writer and producer made him dean of the American theater, died last night at 83.

Burial will be at Woodstock, Vt, after a funeral service here tomorrow.

Skinner, father of the actress and monologist, Cornelia Otis Skinner, gained international fame through his repertoire of 16 Shakespearean roles and his diction.

His greatest triumph was the role of Hajj, the beggar, in Kismet which opened on Broadway 30 years ago. In 1930 he played in a screen version of Kismet, the only movie in which he appeared.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 5, 1942.

Totalitarians start war in high gear. Democracies start in low but have the most staying power.

Nazi soldiers are suffering from the cold in Russia and the heat in Africa—while an unhappy medium prevails in their homeland.

Traffic accident reports may soon be expected to contain such mention as: "All occupants of the car were injured but fortunately the tires were not damaged."

Mansfielders Assume War-Time Roles

MANSFIELD and Richland county are moving swiftly toward organization of essential committees, agencies and groups required to carry on this community's share of the national war effort.

Some of these were already organized and in readiness for quick action after the Pearl Harbor attack, as, for instance, the civilian defense committee and the Red Cross, which is now working toward completion of the $30,000 special quota assigned to this county.

Responding to the financial need in connection with civilian defense, city council has made an appropriation to meet the cost of guarding the municipal water supply and similar protective purposes.

Purchase of defense stamps and bonds is to become more systematized by the set-up of a county organization, with greatly increased facilities for distribution of these securities being planned.

Tire rationing, which will have quick effect on thousands of local motorists, becomes operative today under direction of boards in Mansfield, Shelby and Richland county villages. Sale of tires is confined to a few essential uses and it will be a responsibility of rationing boards to keep the scant supply within prescribed limits.

Sale of new automobiles is entirely prohibited for the present, pending set-up of similar rationing provisions on new cars now in the hands of dealers and drastically reduced future output for essential civilian uses.

Soon, also, machinery will be set in motion locally and throughout the country, for registration of all men between the ages of 18 and 65, and this big job will provide opportunity for a considerable number of volunteer workers to perform a necessary service.

Care has been taken, in selection of competent persons to positions of leadership and direction in the varied activities associated with local war-time efforts and there will continue to be need for capable men and women who are so situated as to be able to give full or part time to some phase of civilian defense or war work, without compensation.

As has already been the case, some who are considered particularly well-qualified for positions of leadership will be called upon to assume specific responsibilities — and the attitude thus far taken has been, as it was in 1917, "Why, certainly, I'll be glad to do everything that I can."

Liquor Industry Girds for War

WHILE war-time prohibition is already being advocated by the W. C. T. U., with resolutions sent to the president, senators and congressmen, liquor interests are moving on a national scale to prevent any such drastic action as was taken soon after United States entry into the first World war in 1917, and which led temporarily into national prohibition.

W. C. T. U. resolutions urge a ban on liquor "in the interest of public safety and efficiency, and for the protection of our armed forces and vital defense industries," while Allied Liquor Industries, Inc., speaking for the liquor interests, announces "early establishment of a nation-wide plan of co-operation with civil and military defense authorities . . . to meet grave public responsibilities."

Allied Liquor Industries announces itself as a new organization which will "devote itself entirely to the public relations of the industry . . . the aim of our undertaking is to merit, assure and safeguard a favorable public attitude toward our industry."

Stressed as important among numerous problems raised by the war are: "Co-operation with authorities, regulation of proper closing hours, operation under blackout conditions, regulation of outlets in the vicinity of military training areas, and elimination of 'sore spots' in the retail sale of liquor."

While the attitude of congress and the national administration toward war-time prohibition cannot be foreseen, determination of liquor interests to act along lines which will merit public approval may be accepted in good faith.

If applied locally, however, this will mean voluntary compliance of night clubs with the Mansfield ordinance which requires 1 a. m. closing, instead of the 2:30 a. m. closing time which has been reverted to because of non-enforcement during the present administration, and also observance of the law against selling liquor to minors.

Experience under prohibition, with its bootlegging, racketeering and gangster criminality, does not encourage return to those conditions, nor does experience lead to belief that all elements of the liquor business can be entrusted with the responsibility of self-policing.

Such restrictions as are already found in state and city laws, if voluntarily observed or strictly enforced, would aid greatly in attaining the purpose of Thomas F. McCarthy, of New York, president of Allied Liquor Industries, who says: "Aside from our natural desire, as loyal, patriotic Americans, to serve our country in this time of national emergency, we are determined that, as a matter of intelligent, enlightened self-interest, we must see to it that every element in this industry discharges its responsibilities."

A good start in Mansfield would be a voluntary return to legal closing hours by night clubs, as provided by city ordinance, instead of continuing the "fix" under which enforcement of the ordinance was dropped.

Ladybugs Invited To California

BUGS are usually thought of as undesirable members of society. But ladybugs are different. They are not only glamorous to children and song writers, but they are attractive to fruit-growers and in demand by county agents in parts of the country where there are citrus groves. The demand is not because they are charming little beetles, but because of quite different characteristics.

Ladybugs eat mealy bugs. And mealy bugs are a pest in orchards. Los Angeles county, California, propagates 1,250,000 ladybugs a year, but it wants more. Fruit growers have asked the county to provide an additional million for their use in 1942.

Young Explains Why Manila Fell

—By JAMES R. YOUNG

Written Expressly For International News Service

THE SERIOUS and unfortunate loss of Manila brings another shameful situation to the surface—the severe inadequacy of its defense equipment.

The Filipinos, who have made a better stand than the Japanese anticipated, are not to blame. Red tape legislation and bureaucrats in Washington prevented Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces from having $50,000,000 in improved defense materials.

The sum was available from gold profit payments and sugar excise taxes, money rightly belonging to the Philippine government. Late last fall, after many protests from the Philippines, President Manuel Quezon was informed by High Commissioner Francis B. Sayre that, in effect, certain legalities prevented the transfer of the needed funds.

It is maddening to read now, when Japanese troops are policing the "open city" of Manila, that some $36,000,000 out of the Philippines' sugar excises have just been appropriated for the islands!

WHILE the joint American-Filipino forces continue their heroic resistance, more enemy reinforcements are landed in the Malaya peninsula by Japan, and Tokyo's armies hammer for a third time at the once great Chinese city of Changsha, there is a hopeful note in the anticipated plans of placing sea power in the Pacific under Admiral Ernest J. King and Far East land forces under Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell.

The Dutch Air Force, under Gen. Hein Ter Poorten and Maj. Gen. L. H. Van Oyen, continues to maintain its high record of inflicting heavy losses on the Japanese.

Japan's New Year holiday present from Manila to Emperor Hirohito is one month earlier than scheduled in Japanese military schemes. Hongkong fell five days later, Guam one day earlier than they had calculated.

However, Tokyo may be not so jubilant at the end of another month, the Japs scheduled time to seize the Philippine islands, for between the lines can be read the quickened beat of Allied strategy in the Pacific. Washington, London and Canberra are exchanging rapid fire messages presaging a smashing counter attack in the Pacific.

MEANTIME, foolhardy, daring and stupid Japanese continue firing shells at isolated points in the Hawaiian islands which will invite our scouting planes and torpedo boats to seek out the attackers. Those subs, some of the 10 or 12 which the Japs built in recent years with a range to Panama and return, will never reach their home naval bases. Nor will their forays of firing into sugar cane fields frighten Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' sea dogs of Pearl Harbor.

New Japanese attacks, from Alaska to the Panama canal are possible. One Jap sub is operating off the west coast of South America and a single metal sea serpent is cruising around Hilo, Hawaii; that is, if our navy has not already disposed of him through depth charges.

Since Japan's plans include Pacific coast bombings, we must not underestimate the nuisance value. Materially it is inconsequential but strategically the scattered assaults can be troublesome. It is the pattern of the Japanese mind thus to operate. The fatal outcome is not considered.

Australia and islands to the north in the direction of the Netherlands East Indies are undoubtedly due for some Jap air and warship attack. The commonwealth has been warned by Lieut. Gen. Ivan Giffard Mackay, commander of the Australian home forces to be on the alert. His announcement coincided with an official Tokyo communique that Jap planes had been in flight in the direction of Australia.

Health and Diet

Cold Facts and Superstitions.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE ARE running into the period of expected frequency of the common cold. One of the few things actually and scientifically known about the cold is that it has a seasonal incidence.

Colds begin to become frequent in October. They do not show very much increase until January when there is a sharp rise in incidence which reaches its peak in the middle of February and then declines until about the first of April. This is one of the few facts that we can say, and say scientifically, that we know about colds.

What doctors know about colds can be summarized very shortly. What they believe about colds is about the same as what you believe about colds—in other words, a hodgepodge of opinions, personal experiences, conclusions and superstitions.

Warnings.

Since we are running into the period of expected frequent incidence, it is natural that health authorities about this time of year begin to give out warnings somewhat to this effect: "Look out for the common cold." Just what you do besides look out for a cold in order to prevent it is left more or less in the realm of speculation.

You are advised not to go around people who have colds. This sounds all right on paper, but it would be pretty difficult to find any human habitation in practical life right now where nobody has a cold. Whether colds are catching or not is somewhat debatable. If they are, they are only catching when the affected person is in the very early stage, even before he begins to feel bad enough to emit an occasional sneeze.

Two Weeks to Develop.

It is estimated that it requires about two weeks after you have been exposed to a cold for it to develop in your own body. When the cold sufferer is all stopped up and talks through his nose and is coughing and generally miserable, he probably is not in a position to transmit a cold to anybody else at all.

So much for prevention by avoiding contact. What about the vaccines? Well, I pointed out in this column a year or two ago that Dr. Diehl of the University of Minnesota gave a number of students cold vaccines and another group sterile water hypodermically, and in the two groups he found the incidence of colds was no higher among those who had received sterile water than among those who had received the vaccine.

But a doctor friend of mine who gives cold vaccines says that while he feels like a quack when he gives them, his wife insists on taking them and she has even talked him into taking a round every year for the past few years himself. So human nature being what it is, it may help psychologically at least to take cold vaccines.

Keep Dry and Warm.

Since colds are definitely coseasonal with cold weather, especially sloppy weather, perhaps the only admonitions that really make any sense are the old wives' warnings: "Keep your feet dry and your body warm and change everything from the skin out when you come in from cold, wet weather."

Lobbyists Again Try to Hamper Measure for Farm Price Control

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The powerful farm lobby, whose log-rolling deal with labor elements mutilated to ineffectualness the anti-inflation price control bill in the house, is again gunning for the price control measure.

This time the lobby boys are operating in the senate where the legislation is pending before the banking committee.

Thanks to the able and courageous leadership of Senator Prentiss Brown of Michigan, his subcommittee put all the house-pulled teeth back into the bill and recommended that it be approved by the full committee. With such an endorsement, favorable action is practically certain.

Further, the restored bill has the strong backing of Senator Charles McNary, potent and astute Republican floor leader.

These factors greatly strengthen chances of passage by the senate. And that would mean that the log-rolling combine in the house would have to back down.

But to forestall this possibility, the farm lobbyists have cooked up a neat scheme.

They have started a vigorous undercover pressure drive to remove control of farm prices from the Office of Price Administration, headed by independent Leon Henderson, and place it in the agriculture department, where the lobby wields powerful inside political influence.

If this is done, the practical effect would be to destroy the effectiveness of preventing runaway food prices. It would be comparable to turning over the fixing of industrial prices to manufacturers.

The country may be at war, but the "gimmie" boys are still riding the gravy train.

More De-Rubbering.

FURTHER restriction on the use of rubber is in the offing. Likely to be banned are raincoats, overshoes, rubber bands, rubber toys, balloons and various everyday items. The extent of the new curbs is dependent upon the amount of saving the drastic tire rationing will produce. If too much rubber is consumed in January, other rubber articles will be put on the proscribed list.

Beaverbrook's Wrong Host.

THE Secret Service did a superb job in guarding Winston Churchill and his staff during their historic Washington visit, but there was one embarrassing slip-up.

Secretary Morgenthau invited his old friend Lord Beaverbrook to drop in at his home on Christmas day. At the appointed hour, Beaverbrook hopped into a Secret Service car and was driven to a handsome house in a fashionable residential district.

Ringing the doorbell, Beaverbrook was greeted by a well-dressed man whom he had never met before.

"I'm Beaverbrook," the British supply minister said.

"Come right in, Your Lordship," was the hearty welcome. "It's a pleasure and honor to have you call. I want you to meet my wife and daughter."

After the introductions, Beaverbrook was served a drink, and after a short stay, expressed his thanks and departed—still not knowing who his hospitable host was. Further, he still doesn't know to this day.

Note: On their second try the Secret Service men drove Beaverbrook to the Morgenthau mansion.

Hollywood Responds.

THREE ace Hollywood directors, including Frank Capra who directed "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," are now going to Washington to join the army.

Their job is to produce pictures to boost the morale of the men; also training films. Army brasshats finally have awakened to the fact that the right kind of films can accomplish wonders for morale. Also they think a lot of short cuts can be taken in army training by visual education through films.

The Washington-bound Hollywood directors who are going to do this job are not going to be dollar-a-year men. They are actually putting on uniforms and going into the army. They are William Wyler who directed "The Little Foxes," "Dodsworth," "Wuthering Heights," and "Dead End"; also John Huston, who directed "The Maltese Falcon." He is the son of the famous actor Walter Huston.

Finally, and already in Washington, is Frank Capra, born in Italy, intensely proud of his Americanism, and director of such famous pictures as "Lost Horizon," "The Bitter Tea of General Yen," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," and "Meet John Doe."

An army uniform is no new thing for Capra. He entered the last war as a private, came out a lieutenant. But the big question is whether the army will really make use of its Hollywood recruits. Will they be turned loose to make stirring morale pictures or will they be snarled in red tape?

When General Fred H. Osborn, chief of army morale, first was told Frank Capra was available for duty, he looked bored, suggested a desk job. Then a few hours later he woke up to who Capra was, and rushed out to really put him to work.

Good Neighbor Train.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER is about to send a train to Mexico. And if it were possible, he would like to send trains all around the Latin-American circuit.

He got the idea from Floyd Odlum and his "Defense Special" trains, which toured the country to tell the public what defense production meant. Why not do the same thing below the Rio Grande?

The imaginative minds in the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs (Rockefeller) snapped at it, and immediately began looking around for trains. They went to Richmond to see an Odlum train, which they could have taken over after January; but it was a bit travel worn, and they decided to get up a new one.

Rockefeller's Joseph C. Rovensky was assigned to the job, and plans were made for exhibits of tanks, anti-aircraft guns, jeeps, and the wide range of raw materials needed to produce defense equipment—especially the raw material that comes from Latin America.

Mexico will be shown, for example, how her rubber, lead, copper, mercury, and jute are going into the production of defense materials for the Hemisphere.

The train will be staffed with 30 persons, including Spanish-speaking army and navy officers.

If the exhibit is a success, it may be carried to other countries by sea.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The early efforts at organization of civilian defense against air raids on the nation's capital have been an awful bust—and mostly because of the activities of "fifth columnists."

I put that fifth columnists in quotation marks because there is no evidence yet that it was an organized effort inspired by any contact with the enemy. Police, civilian-defense and government officials consider it more likely that they are cranks, pranksters, and ignorant or misinformed individuals. But in any event, their contribution to the fifth column has been so serious here that officials have asked the FBI to investigate.

FOR example, all those tuned in on the District of Columbia police radio the other night were set back on their heels to hear the words: "Air raid alarm—air raid alarm" come blaring out of the ether. The dispatcher was probably more stunned than any one else.

According to the local Office of Civilian Defense that isn't the first time such things have happened. The times police, OCD, and newspaper telephone switchboards have been jammed by queries on rumors already are so numerous that I've lost count of them. These rumors act like incindiary bombs tossed into the haystack of capital humanity. They seem to come from nowhere and set whole sections on fire all at once.

Some of them are so ridiculous that they could only come from practical jokers with a misguided sense of humor; others are so subtle that they must be considered the work of persons seeking to spread alarm and confusion and delay the effective organization of civilian defense. That, at any rate, is how the FBI classifies them and it's on that basis that they are making their investigations.

THE fact that some persons are set up to break into the capital's radio broadcasts, commercial as well as police, is considered a pretty serious matter.

Still, the worst setbacks to civilian defense here where organization should be a model for the whole country have resulted from indifference, ignorance, and the failure of defense officials to clarify their orders and instructors

The first air raid test was a joke. Not one hundredth of the population was able to hear the sirens. On another occasion, and for no apparent reason, all District air raid wardens were ordered to patrol their posts from sundown to sunup. It was the coldest night Washington has had this winter. Maybe you think civilian defense didn't take a beating that night.

I met one of the wardens the next morning. Between yawns and rubbing his bloodshot eyes, he said: "I drank a pint of whisky and 12 cups of coffee and called my chief eight times to find out what I was supposed to do. I never did find out. The line was always busy. He must have left the receiver off the hook.

OVER the holidays, teachers were ordered to keep a 24-hour vigil all Washington schools. Here was fertile soil for the "fifth columnists," and apparently they made hay. It took about three days for officials to get out with an explanation which, when it finally came, was more than adequate. The OCD wanted to use the schools as information dispersal centers. Properly organized, it would be an ideal setup. As it was, it caused more furore in the capital than the three declarations of war and the visit of Winston Churchill combined.

Britishers working here who went through the early days of the war in England say, "It's the same the whole world over. Wait until you get a few bombs. That will straighten things out. It did at home."

You May Also Wonder.

The white-collar man who puts in 14 hours a day, and goes to bed so tired he can't sleep, must have some classification. If he isn't a worker, what is he? — Akron Beacon-Journal.

The Marines.

It is proposed to increase the number of marines from 60,000 to 104,000.

In view of what went on at Wake Island, and of the whole heroic history of the marines in all fighting wars, we wonder why not an increase from 60,000 to, say at least a million.

As a layman looks at it, we could even cut down on dreadnoughts and put the money in marines. They do not seem to be as good targets as battleships.—Cleveland Press.

A Farmer's Diary

Companionship

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

"MONEY buys things," she wrote on her Christmas card, "but not happiness. A friend of mine said to me when my husband died, 'You have had something that many women who lived forty years with their husbands never had—that is, real close companionship.'

"Perhaps the richest men are often the men with least money. My husband entertained me at expensive eating places, but we had our best times when we wandered through the woods looking for rare plants and birds."

The writer is an old friend of our family. She was a teacher. Her husband, a business man, waited six years for her—then died very suddenly from a heart ailment, seven weeks after their marriage, while still their pretty new home was uncomplete, and their life together had just begun.

High moments of companionship do not depend on wealth in dollars...and memories of rare comradeship are the highest spots of living.

"Years ago," went on this friend, whose hair is white, "when my husband met me first, he feared he might not be able to entertain me as he believed I would like. He was a country boy — and I from town. He thought I liked expensive operas, and stylish dinners. He was liberal and solicitous about my comfort and contentment — but it wasn't until we built a fire in the woods one day and sat on a log together eating steak with our fingers blackened and a smudge on our noses that we really fell in love.

"The deep woods had a wonderful fragrance and the south wind roared through the trees like thunder. I never knew before what it was like to feel the thick wall of darkness creep up to the edges of the firelight and shut two people in because they found it a satisfying place to be.

"Then, when we got up to go, I accidentally looked up through the trees and saw the stars; the first time I had ever really noticed them....and he took my hand and we walked back home together. Now that my husband's gone, the memory of such little excursions is a long and beautiful journey that will never end."

the Indo-China bases which have played such an important role in Japan's South Sea successes to date.

General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, architect of Britain's first victory in Libya and the newly designated supreme commander of Allied forces in the south Pacific, has given no hint that such a big flanking operation is in prospect On the contrary, before assuming his new command he cautioned that "the situation may become worse until the tide turns."

The Berlin radio, quoting Tokyo dispatches, reported that a large fleet of Japanese transports were moving southward, presumably for operations against the Betan peninsula, the big land arm enclosing Manila bay and the logical spot for the American-Filipino last stand

The U. S. navy took occasion yesterday to challenge Tokyo's veracity anew. There was absolutely no foundation, the navy said, to Japanese assertions that 17 American destroyers, 25 submarines and one aircraft carrier were trapped at Cavite, the U. S. naval base near Manila which was evacuated. All ships and personnel were removed safely, the department reported, except for a hospital detail left behind to care for sick and wounded.

The belief here was that the navy had shifted from Cavite to Olongapo, a secondary naval base on the Batan peninsula where MacArthur's hard pressed troops apparently are now concentrating

Japs Act To Prevent Sabotage In Manila

TOKYO — (Official Broadcast Recorded By United Press In New York)—The imperial high command sources said today that measures were being taken in conquered Manila to prevent activities by white fifth columnists"

Officials categorically denied "foreign reports" that the white population of Manila was being subjected to indiscriminate treatment. Such reports "obviously were faked" to serve the purpose of "propaganda," the high command said.

Paves Way For French To Join Allies

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The way today was made clear for the Free French movement of General Charles De Gaulle to associate itself with the anti-Axis pact, pledging 26 nations to co-operate not only in defeating the aggressor nations but in establishing a better world order after the war.

The state department issued a formal statement announcing that the American government is willing to receive statements of adherence to the principles of the anti-Axis pact from "appropriate authorities which are not governments."

Victorious Chinese Ready For New Blows

CHUNGKING —(INS)— With the cream of Japan's Asiatic land army annihilated at Changsha with a loss of 50,000 men, Chinese military officials today predicted a general counter-offensive aimed at dislodging the enemy not only from China but from Thailand and French Indo-China as well.

Army leaders said that China's victory at Changsha definitely marked the beginning of a full-scale Chinese offensive "to drive out the Japanese and prevent their exploitation of occupied areas."

Virtually all sections of the Chungking press called for immediate action against the Japanese while their forces are still reeling from the Changsha impact.

The influential newspaper Taking-Pao said that Thailand and Indo-China should be occupied immediately by Chinese forces "pending their disposal at some future peace conference."

Warning that the Chinese people would be in grave difficulties if Singapore falls and the Burma road is severed, the paper called for "all-out" Chinese war moves, including the loan of Chinese manpower to Britain and the United States.

ployers to give men workers time to register next month. Registrations will be handled from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. Men who are unable to register on the date set today because of illness or any other reason must register as soon thereafter as possible.

The president was expected to issue other proclamations later, setting registration times for youths under 20 and men past 45.

Draft board clerks here said they have already received filing cabinets and other supplies needed for the February registration. They said no plans have been made, however, to employ additional help that will be needed to handle the thousands of men who will jam the board headquarters on registration day.

Approximately 900,000 men were called into the army under the first draft law up to Jan 1. Army officials refuse to say how many men will be called up this year. There still are approximately 1,000,000 men in class A1, available for immediate military service and all of the 17,000,000 men who registered under the first draft law are now being reclassified in order to make even more men available.

So far only the army has used the draft law to obtain men, but the navy is expected to call for men under it soon.

city and county, the officers said.

Sheriff Robinson received three revolvers and a shotgun from one man and a camera from another Bates had collected a camera and three guns.

Radio repairmen in the city reported that a number of aliens have brought their radio receivers to them to have the short-wave apparatus disconnected in compliance with the federal ruling.

Radio receivers with short-wave attachments must be turned in by tonight or the alien owners must give authorities certificates showing the sets have been changed to make them unsuitable for short-wave reception Short-wave transmitters also come under the ruling. Short-wave sets were described as those which receive or transmit on a frequency of less than 540 or more than 1750 kilocycles.

Chief Bates said a check-up will be started soon after the deadline tonight and that the FBI will provide a list of aliens in the city and county to be used by officers in checking compliance with the government order.

SEEKS INCREASE IN RAIL FARES

Pullman Company Petitions for 10 Per Cent Hike In Rates.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Pullman company today petitioned the Interstate Commerce commission for authority to raise by 10 per cent its sleeping and parlor car rates.

The action was taken to meet a $6,352,200 increase in operating expenses, accruing from enlarged wages and payroll taxes. With a 10 per cent increase the company said that it expected to increase earnings by $6,127,830.

The increase was proposed in line with petitions from American railroads and the Railway Express Agency for 10 per cent raises in rates due to similar reasons.

The letter states that Mayor W. The Bowman street group contends that the current war traffic has nothing to do with the matter, stating that their correspondence on the question, dates as far back as 1926.

"We are asking that the entire trouble be removed without delay," says the letter to council, "evidently no more quibbling is necessary since the necessary ordinance has been in full effect ever since our first complaint which was by telephone to Mayor Locke His letter about the viaduct was dated Sept. 21, 1940

The complaint closes in saying the residents are property owners who can not remove themselves easily because of the smoke and noise problem terior department, were reported found dead by a railway track, in the occupied zone within 25 miles southeast of Paris.

With the Russian offensive in full swing against the entire German front, the Finns may have concluded it would be better to strike a bargain with Russia before the full force of the Russian drive hits them.

Perhaps Russia has counted on just such an overture, for, while the Finns have been under counter-attack along with other allies in the Hitlerian "crusade," there has been nothing to indicate that the offensive in their direction equals it in others.

The Red army's powerdrive was reported officially today to have carried through Belev, 100 miles west of the German high water mark on the southern flank of the Moscow arc.

The Germans were said to have lost 2,300 men in dead and wounded in fighting for Belev, which is 50 miles south of Kaluga and half way to Bryansk from Tula.

The Belev drive paralleled a pincer movement farther north to which Borovsk had fallen, heightening the threat of entrapment for the Germans at Mozhaisk, west of Moscow.

Russian dispatches also said the Germans already might have been driven beyond their intended winter lines at one point in the south. They said that Nazis, despite tank support, also failed to dislodge the Soviets from Feodosiya, where a Crimean peninsula drive is headed toward relief of besieged Sevastopol.

As the Russians published detailed claims to mountains of captured war booty and new thousands of German dead a Soviet aviation authority asserted Russia would soon hurl a new and mightier-than-ever air force at the Germans.

British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden asserted in a world-wide broadcast that Britain and Russia were closer together than at any time since war broke out and would come still closer.

As the result of the bombing of a German-frequented restaurant in Paris Germans said that city's cafes and public places were put under a 5 p. m. curfew by the German authorities.

From the German-occupied port of Brest came vague reports of a mysterious incident which caused suspension of the entire city council, including the mayor.

There was an upsurge of aerial warfare in western Europe while over the Egyptian-Libyan border region the RAF hammered at Axis holdout forces in the area of Halfaya "Hellfire" pass. The air assault was timed with land attacks.

Having captured Bardia and rounded up 7,500 German and Italian prisoners there, "our attention has now been turned to the last remaining pocket of enemy resistance in eastern Cirenacia," said the Cario communique.

"In the Agedabia area our mobile columns and air forces maintained their pressure on the enemy, especially against his communications to the west."

Differ On Success Of Clothing Drive

LONDON —(U.P.)— Radio Berlin said today that 32,000,000 pieces of clothing had been collected in the drive to get the civilian population to provide warm garments for Russian front troops, but the British Broadcasting company, quoting Berlin newspapers, said the drive was a failure, yielding less than 4 500,000 pieces of worn-out clothes.

The German radio said 1,500,000 pieces of fur and more than 5,000,000 pairs of stockings and socks had been collected. Despite this, it announced that the drive would be continued another week.

Report Finns Slay 20 Nazi Soldiers

STOCKHOLM—(UP)—Reliable informants said today that at least 20 German soldiers had been killed recently at Helsinki by angry Finns and that as the result of increasing strain in German-Finnish relations, the Nazi Gestapo had taken control of Finnish police in Helsinki and other cities

The Germans were killed in street and saloon brawls, informants said, largely as the result of relations between German soldiers and Finnish women positions below Ipoh under fresh Japanese hammer blows, fought fiercely today to halt the tanked invaders on a new line established farther south.

Finnish men were complaining that their women friends and their wives were too friendly with Germans, informants said, and now were enraged because the Germans were taking advantage of an increasingly severe food shortage to entice Finnish women with gifts of food.

Announcement the battlelines had inched nearer to Singapore during the week-end coincided with disquieting news that the Japanese had gained ground in their efforts to win control of Borneo by effecting a landing at Weston on the northwest coast.

Weston, in British north Borneo, is about 170 miles north of Miri, Sarawak, the British-protected domain of the white rajah, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, where the Japanese first gained a foothold on the island Dec. 17.

Since then they have captured Kuching, capital of Sarawak.

The communique disclosing the British withdrawal in northwestern Malaya failed to say where the new imperial defense lines had been established, though it mentioned some Japanese patrol activity in southern Perak state, the border of which at one point is only 240 miles from Singapore.

The previous line had been established behind the Pernak river, which enters Malacca strait about 280 miles from this vital naval base.

The British said the Japanese had paid a heavy toll of casualties as the price of their advance.

Further Japanese activity off the west coast of Malaya, where the invaders previously had attempted to land behind the British lines, was reported during the week-end. British planes heavily attacked Japanese boats along the coast, a communique said, but poor visibility made the results uncertain.

CHAPTER XXXIV

"How did you get here so quick?" Charlie Lennon demanded the instant he saw his older brother. "I never thought I'd see you tonight!"

"You're lucky to be seeing me at all . . . you little devil." Wige tried to growl to conceal his emotion. He bent down and kissed Charlie on the cheek. "I mean," he added hastily, "I might have broken my neck getting here. I flew."

"Gosh! Did you? Who brought you?"

"Mr. Dennison. Mr. Delaine came along, too."

"That was swell! I hope I can do that some day. Is Carol really all right?"

"I heard the doctor say so. You both had a narrow escape, though."

"Well," Charlie observed, "it wouldn't have made so much difference about me, but I was awful scared when I saw Carol. I was sure she had been killed . . . and trying to do something for me!" He tried to divert his thoughts from the picture. "That sure was dandy of Mr. Dennison to bring you right down. He must be nice."

"He is," Wige agreed grimly. He was thinking again of what awaited him upon his return to Jericho. He even had a mental flash of himself asking old Higgins, the banker, if he could have his job back. He'd starve first.

"Did you talk to Mom before you started?"

"Why, sure."

"Then everything's all right." Charlie was silent for a moment, then he observed: "It's funny, Wige. I was sort of afraid to come here at first. But everybody's been so good to me. There are two nice doctors who examined me to make sure I wasn't hurt. One of them asked me if I liked to swim. I told him I couldn't . . . not now."

"What did he say then?"

"That I'd be surprised at the things I could do before they got through with me. Maybe they can make me better, Wige."

"Of course they can, I know it."

"I didn't want to come at all when we started," Charlie confided. "I was afraid you wouldn't like it on account of Carol doing it, when all the time you wanted to. But she was awful nice to me," he sighed. "I told her last night I loved her most . . . after you and Mom."

"Coming on, aren't you?" Wige leaned back until his face was out of the light. After that, he tried to steer the talk into safer channels and to take the boy's mind off the happenings of the last few hours. It had just occurred to him that perhaps he might be keeping Andy and Dennison waiting, that he'd better hunt them up. There would be direct word from Carol, too. At that moment, there was a tap on the door and a nurse entered.

"Mr. Lennon?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Miss Delaine wishes to speak to you. I will show you to her room if you wish."

"Why, yes . . . thank you. I'll see you again, Chuckie. If not tonight then in the morning. Try to rest now."

As he followed the nurse along a corridor and down a flight of stairs, Wige hoped that Andy would be in the room when he reached it. That would make it a little easier. He drew a long breath when the nurse entered a half-open door and peeped around a screen.

"Mr. Lennon to see you, Miss Delaine." Then she came out and motioned Wige to enter. He gave a slight gasp when he saw Carol propped against the pillows. She looked like the little girl he once knew. Her shining hair was plaited in two little tails, touching either shoulder of her white nightgown. To complete the reversion, her big brown eyes were troubled and her mouth quivered when she spoke.

"Come here, Wige. I had to speak to you. I hope you don't mind." Andy was nowhere in sight.

"Of course not. I'm so glad you weren't hurt, Carol." Wige busied himself by drawing a chair to the side of the high bed and seating himself. He clasped his hands behind him, suddenly filled with fear that he might pick this child up in his arms and try to comfort her. He never had felt quite like that toward the grown-up and self-confident Carol.

"You don't hate me for what I did, do you Wige?"

"Of course not!" he answered gruffly. "It was swell of you."

"But, Wige! It was my fault that Chuckie came so near to being hurt! If he had been . . . I wouldn't have wanted to live any longer. That was the last thing I remember thinking." Her hands suddenly went over her eyes as if to shut out that memory. Two big tears rolled down her cheeks.

"Don't!" Wige begged miserably. "If I hadn't been so pigheaded in the first place, this wouldn't have happened. You wouldn't have had to run such a risk. If anything had happened to you I would have been the one who wouldn't want to go on living."

"You!" Carol dropped her hands and stared, "I thought . . ."

"Don't!" he begged again. "Oh, Carol, it's no use! I threw away my big chance, and anything you can say won't make it any worse than it has been . . . and is. I got what was coming to me."

"And just what do you think is coming to you, Mr. Lennon?" Carol blinked rapidly.

"Nothing."

"Don't call me that!" she half sobbed. "Because if you're not coming to me . . . I'm coming to you! Wige, please!" Her arms were held out.

Wige did not trust himself to speak. He buried his face in the pillow beside Carol's and felt her arms clinging.

"I was so afraid . . ." he heard her whisper.

"So was I," he said close to her ear. "I thought you."

"That was because you were pigheaded, Wige. Maybe I was, too. But I've been thinking things . . . since. I found it was always you and would be. For me. Even if I had to tell you so. That's why I wanted to see nobody else—now."

"And it always would have been you, Carol."

"Wige?"

"Yes?"

"Do you remember I told you once how I felt as if I were shut in some place where I couldn't get out? What hurt so was to find that you were on the outside and I couldn't be with you. Promise me that it won't be like that again ever. I want to be free . . . with you."

"Sure," he whispered huskily. "It will always be like that."

(THE END)

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

The seconds on the mantel clock ticked themselves away into eternity, and I mechanically counted forty of them before Noel gave any sign of having heard what I had said to him.

But finally he stirred ever so slightly in his chair, and a single sentence came from his lips, stiffened as if by cold.

"Yes, I will listen to you, and say nothing until you have finished," he said.

"Thank you, Noel, that is all I ask," I told him.

Appeal to Common Sense.

"In the first place, Noel," I said, "your own common sense ought to tell you that Mary is in no danger of physical or verbal insult from Stephen Redfield. I will point out why in a minute.

"I grant you that if Redfield discovers that she has been setting a trap for him, and has gained valuable information from him, her life would be in danger—not from him; he keeps himself outside the lethal activities of the gang with which he is associated—but from the men to whom he reports, and to whom no doubt he would betray Mary.

"But even then Mary would be in no real danger, for if she keeps up this association with Redfield, my father will see to it that she is adequately guarded — although Redfield will never suspect it—every minute from the time she leaves the hotel until she enters its doors again."

I paused to let that sink in, and after a few seconds went back to my first premise.

"There are two reasons why Redfield will never offer Mary any physical or verbal insult," I said "First, Mary is perfectly capable of managing Stephen Redfield and a dozen more like him. He might utter the same romantic speeches which are his stock in trade on the stage, and which you may be sure Mary would know how to parry, but he would never dare to say or do anything which would be a cause of real offense to her."

I watched him furtively as I spoke, to see if my arguments were having any effect whatever upon him, but his skepticism appeared unbroken.

Dare Not Offend.

"There is another and even more potent reason, in Stephen Redfield's opinion, for his being careful about his behavior toward Mary," I went on. "You know, Noel, as well as I do that Stephen, as leading man to Mary, the star, is not going to do anything which would jeopardize his position with her, especially when he knows that she is the daughter-in-law of the play's producer, the man who holds 'the high justice, the middle and the low' over every member of the cast."

Did I imagine it, or was Noel's face losing something of its frozen expression? I went on:

"You may believe, and with apparent reason, that if Redfield is associated with these gangsters, he is likely at any time to drop out of his profession and join them actively. But my father is sure that although Steve uses his profession as a blind behind which he gathers information of value to his associates, he has no other sinister activities.

To Help Find Marion.

"Steve is immensely valuable to the gang where he is. They can get plenty of other men for their rougher work, but to have a man of his position and prominence helping them out is an advantage they would never risk losing by requiring him to commit crimes at which his thick veneer of culture and training would balk."

I wafted a silent apology to my father as I talked, for though I did not doubt that he would subscribe to the theories I had given Noel concerning Redfield, he had not yet voiced them to me.

His face was less forbidding, I decided, but that held no real encouragement for me, and I began moving up my heavy artillery

"Of course," I said abruptly, "the real reason why my father is so anxious to have Mary find out more about Redfield, is that he thinks Steve may know where Marion is being hidden."

"The Authority on Authorities"

THEY ALL COUNT ALIKE

Tricks taken by your partner's hand are just as valuable to your side as those taken by your own hand. That is such an obviously accurate statement that it can't help sounding like an absurdity to state it at all. It is not, though, to some players, who are dazzled by the trick takers they can see and mistrustful about those about which their partners tell them with their bids. They are the kind who refuse to bid a grand slam unless it is cold in their own hands. But, if some slam convention or other bidding has made it positive that the side cannot lose a trick, then they are merely foolish not to bid it.

	♠ J 8 5 ♥ 7 ♦ J 7 2 ♣ J 8 7 4 3 2
♠ A Q ♥ Q 9 8 6 4 ♦ 2 ♣ A 10 3	W. N. E. S.	♠ K 9 6 3 ♥ A K 10 3 ♦ K 9 6 5 ♣ A
	♠ 10 7 4 2 ♥ J 5 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ 10 9 6 5

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 NT	Pass	5 ♥
Pass	5 NT	Pass	6 ♠
Pass	7 NT

This deal was in a match point duplicate game One very fine player, who has a crazy fetish against bidding a grand slam, actually refused to do it in the West position, even though the bidding went exactly the same as given above, with East's responses to the Blackwood convention identical. Instead of 7-No Trumps, he bid only 6-Hearts. Needless to say, his pair got bottom score on the deal, as everybody else bid 7-No Trumps.

If West can depend on his partner's bids, he can tell that East has the missing two aces and all three of the missing kings. That should enable him to count three tricks in spades, six in hearts, two in diamonds and three in clubs—a total of 14, unless some of those tricks were untakable through lack of sufficient guards to the honors in the East hand. An example of such a thing is in the club suit, where there are three top trick takers, but only two tricks can be taken. That left 13 sure tricks anyway, but West explained after the deal that, if this occurred in two suits there would have been only 12.

Thank heaven our soldiers, sailors and marines are not like that, or they would never dish out the terrific licking they are going to give those Japs and others.

Tomorrow's Problem.

If the order of tricks taken by South, playing at 3 No Trumps in this deal, is a club, two hearts, another club, another heart, three more clubs, the diamond K and the diamond 5 toward the A, what should West discard on the third heart, what on the last club, and what should he play on the second diamond lead, and why?

THEATERS

Indian Massacre.

The story of an army regiment that perished to a man and established a chapter in history known as "Custer's last stand," is thrillingly depicted in "They Died With Their Boots On," now showing at the Ohio. Custer's men knew, as they rode forth to meet the Indians in the battle of Little Big Horn, that they would meet their death but they also knew that they would hold off the enemy until enforcements arrived. Errol Flynn plays the role of George A. Custer in this screen epic based on Custer's life while Olivia de Havilland, Sydney Greenstreet and John Litel top the supporting cast.

Swamp Thriller.

Depicting the loves, hates and the lives of the people who live near the foreboding Georgia Okefenokee swamp, the picture, "Swamp Water," showing at the Madison, tells the story of a fugitive from justice and the manner in which an innocent boy becomes involved in the fugitive's fate. Walter Brennan, Academy Award winner, plays the hunted criminal while Walter Huston of stage fame, Dana Andrews and Anne Baxter have prominent parts. Andrews, a newcomer, was a former California filling station attendant, who sprung into the limelight after experience with a little theater "Cadet Girl," military musical with George Montgomery and John Shepperd is the co-feature.

Tracy Starred.

Autry Picture.

Gene Autry's "Down Mexico Way," a romance with music, is the Park attraction. Sidney Blackmer and Harold Huber are in the cast. "Freckles Comes Home," with Johnny Downs and Gale Storm is the second attraction.

Amazing Story.

Brother is pitted against brother in "Underground," the Majestic attraction, based on the fearless movement carried on by some of the youth of oppressed nations to overthrow dictatorship. The underground shortwave radio provides the instrument in this picture which presents Jeffrey Lynn as a zestful young Nazi whose brother, played by Philip Dorn, is a leader in the underground movement. The example of Nazi brutality that Lynn witnesses when his brother is exposed turns him violently against the party. Kaaren Verne and Mona Maris are in the cast. Ken Maynard in "Whirlwind Horseman," is the second feature.

WE-ALL

The Japanese attack on the United States instantly changed our trend of thought in this country.

Before that attack some of us thought in terms of "I", others in terms of "we". Neither of those terms expresses our feelings today.

"I" represents only one person.

"We" may mean only two or a few persons.

Our slogan now is WE-ALL, which means every loyal individual in the United States.

We are facing a long, hard job, but when the United States decides to fight for a cause, it is in terms of WE-ALL, and nothing can or will stop us.

President Roosevelt, our Commander-in-Chief, can be certain that WE-ALL are back of him, determined to protect our country, our form of government, and the freedoms which we cherish.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, Jan. 6.

According to the lunar transits this should be an active and productive day, especially in all pertaining to writings, publishings, promotional enterprises, correspondence, travel and dealings with agencies. All new projects and important objectives are under fine impetus for definite accomplishment. It should be a time for pushing with determination despite a stubborn obstacle that may seem to impede progress.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a verly lively and progressive year, with new projects of importance under fine stimuli for outstanding success. All may move at high tempo, with particular accent on all pertaining to writings, publicity, promotions, travel and agencies on communications. There may be some static or obscure situation to vanquish by indomitable will.

A child born on this day should be lively, enterprising, tenacious as well as aggressive, and should capture success by its strong will as well as versatility.

Your little girl will love a "sailor lassie" frock like this, especially with the V-for-Victory emblem. Pattern 9873, designed by Marian Martin, carries out the "V" idea in the V neck and the pointed waistline seam in front. A real sailor collar, and the short sleeves too, may be trimmed with rows of braid or ribbon. Four little buttons to match the braid, trim the bodice, and the panelled skirt is so attractive on a tiny figure! This is an easily-made frock, Mother—even the transfer motif is simple to apply and embroider with the directions given in the Sew Chart. Try one version in sturdy cotton; another in serge with white braid or a white contrast collar.

Pattern 9873 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 1⅞ yards 35 inch fabric and 3¼ yards braid trim.

Sport Podge

B-r-r-r.

Just a bit snappy today, what? The weather, of course, not this column.

And if I seem just a bit snap-happy, don't be surprised.

Just the day for a good Russian blitz. Got to hand it to those Russians at that. They make hay while the sun shines on the snow drifts.

And that wasn't hey-hey I was making while waiting for a bus this morning. It wasn't even an imitation kazatska. Just flapping the arms and stomping the feet and trying to keep warm, that's all. A jit-blitz without juke box.

The long holiday lull in sports comes to an end today, but definitely

Starting with tonight's News-Journal banquet for Mansfield high school's undefeated football Tygers at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, the week's sport calendar includes the first pro basketball game of the season tomorrow evening at the high school between Toledo and Detroit, while Friday night the Tyger cagers meet an alumni aggregation at the school gym.

The sports world warms up while the weather gets cold and I remain not so hot. On orders from the war department, I regret that I'll be unable to give you my exact temperature. But there goes my frozen little finger bouncing around on the floor again.

Chuck Chuckovits makes his first appearance of the season at the high school gym tomorrow night, but it won't be his last, whether or not he plays in any more games here this winter.

Coach Vern Hoffman has announced that the Chucker has been hired to referee two of the Tyger games, including the return tilt with Canton McKinley.

Banquet Tickets Sold Out

Dinner For Tygers Scheduled For 6:30.

EVERYTHING'S all set for tonight's seventh annual News-Journal football banquet, scheduled promptly at 6:30 o'clock at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, and honoring the undefeated Tygers of Mansfield high school.

Principal attraction will be the address by Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State university and movies of Ohio State and other college games of the past season, and of the Mansfield-Massillon game to be shown by Coach Bud Houghton of Massillon.

From Massillon comes the report that the movies of Ohio's greatest high school game of the past season came out unusually good for a night tilt, and show what a great game Joe Romano and Bill Doolittle of the Tygers played that night.

Ticket sale for the event closed at 1 p m. today, a complete sell-out, and with a record attendance assured. Members of three clubs, the Cooperative, Gyro and Hermit, have agreed to take tables on the mezzanine floor for the dinner, but room will be made for them in the banquet hall for the program that follows

Music during dinner will be furnished by the high school band under the direction of J. Merton Holcombe.

* * *

Guests will include the high school football lettermen, the high school coaching staff, members of the cross-country team, several cheer leaders, and of course the principal speakers, and Johnny Hallabrin, Mansfield quarterback of the Ohio State Buckeyes, Luther Emory, football writer of the Massillon Independent, and Coach Al Fendrick and Captain Gene Batson of Madison high school

Six-Year-Old Bowls 150

Only six years old, "Twinkie" Watts, movie and bowling star of Santa Monica, Cal., averages 150 and has rolled games over 200. She uses a 10-pound ball and has swell form, as you can see. She is shown at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Quick Break's Old Story Done Up In Fancy Clothes

By CLAIR BEE
Long Island University Coach

NEW YORK—(AP)—Fire department basketball, or the quick break, is nothing new. It's just a refinement of what happened when Dr. James Naismith tossed the ball up between two players 50 years ago and stepped back to watch the result.

Eighteen players (nine on a side in that first game) scrambled madly for the ball. When one finally gained possession, the other eight on his team tore madly for their basket, screaming for a pass.

That was the original quick break and the idea behind it—to score by getting there "fustest with the mostest"—is the plan back of the modern quick-breaking attack.

But today's "fire department" offense is no haiurn-scarum, careless, unplanned drive toward the scoring zone. It's lightning fast, hard-driving, and exciting, but used properly it follows a carefully designed pattern.

On the "criss cross" quick break (broken lines indicate passes, unbroken lines the paths of the players) there is usually one initial long pass into offensive territory, then a number of short passes to scoring position. Receivers meet the ball, then pass across court, following their passes.

First of the two basic quick-break systems, the three-lane, calls for a three-man attack One man, playing the center of the floor, receives the ball as soon as his team gains possession and dribbles on a straight line toward the basket His two co-attackers, one on either side of the court, dash straight down the sidelines as soon as their team is in possession

When the dribbler reaches his foul circle, he stops, the sideline men break from the side court and under the basket. That gives the dribbler three choices, he may pass to either of the two cutters or, if both are covered, take a short set-shot himself from his stopping point.

The idea, of course, is to get the ball downcourt before the opponents can get more than two men back. In that way the attackers have a three-on-two advantage, often a three-on-one.

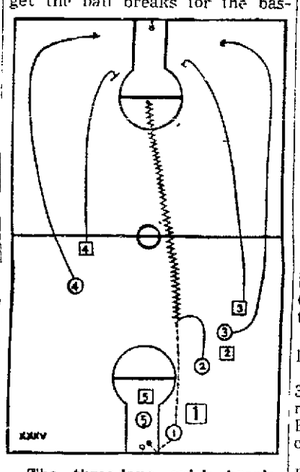
The second system, a favorite in the Far West, is the dribble and pivot attack. First man to get the ball breaks for the basket, dribbling until a defender stops him, then pivoting and passing to the next teammate coming up in a criss-cross pattern. A variation of this style is the criss-cross without the pivot, the pass being forward.



The three-lane quick break calls for a quick pass to No. 2 down the middle. No. 2 then dribbles straight up the floor to the foul circle from where he either passes to one of two cutting teammates or takes a set-shot.

Rocky mountain teams are great users of the fast break, and it's very popular in the Missouri valley conference and the Southwest. In the Middle West, Branch McCracken at Indiana, is a firm believer in this method of attack, and Piggy Lambert at Purdue stresses it but holds his boys to no set pattern, depending upon them to adapt their attack successfully.

The big advantage of the quick-break is double-edged. It's quick and high-scoring; and it weakens the opponent's attack because he must always be thinking of defense, even in the midst of attacking.

Don't confuse the quick-break offense with the system that was used so sensationally last year by Rhode Island State A casual basketball observer might label Coach Frank Keaney's attack a quick-break. His attack, really, is in his defense. Because it's a defense that's really used as an offense, we'll take it up next while we're discussing the offense.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Wonder if anyone has thought of the possibility that war conditions will help baseball and some other spectator sports instead of wrecking them? . With no new cars and no tires to take folks out of town, they're likely to turn for amusement to the places they can reach easily—the ball parks . . . Certainly they won't be leaving minor league towns and driving 100 miles or so to see big league games.

Weather wasn't very co-operative with the East-West and pro bowl charity games, but the pros didn't do so badly for the navy relief fund. Crowd was only about 4,000 under last year's at Los Angeles, and the New York price scale was higher.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Jimmy Murphy, Canton (Ill.) Daily Ledger: "Joe Louis celebrated New Year's day by helping devour turkey . . . next week they're feeding him, Baer."

MONDAY MATINEE

Hold your hats, boys, here comes Lou Nova with another new punch. He calls it the "spitfire punch"—it's a short, fast right that starts high and comes down. . . . Should do all right if it's equipped with a cannon and a brace of machine guns . . . Frank Brimsek, the Bruins' goalie, has joined the Brookline (Mass.) aircraft warning service and puts in three hours a day on duty . . . Pete Barry, one of the original Celtics, still is playing pro basketball after 30 years on the hardwood. He is 44.

An estimated three to three-and-one-half million skunks a year are trapped.

Louis Gives Navy Purse

Relief Society To Get Approximately 80 G's.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe Louis, who wound up with a knot on his head, an argument on his hands and $40,000 in his pocket the last time he tied into Buddy Baer, risks his heavyweight title against the Californian again Friday night with nothing but thanks as his reward.

The champion expects to earn twice as much as he did before, in about half the time, but he's giving it all away. Win, lose or draw, Louis will donate his end of the purse to the Navy Relief society, which takes care of the families of navy men felled in action.

If the gate reaches $225,000, the goal set by Promoter Mike Jacobs, the Bomber's share will be around $80,000. And all that he'll take, under an agreement reached long before Pearl Harbor was attacked, will be his training expenses.

* * *

Baer is turning part of his purse back to the naval fund and Jacobs is working for nothing.

It took Louis six rounds to finish the job in Washington, D. C, last May, after Baer had bounced the champion on his head in the opening frame. Baer was disqualified by Referee Arthur Donovan when Buddy's manager, Ancil Hoffman, remained in the ring to claim a foul after the seventh round was scheduled to start.

The battle, expected to attract close to 20,000 customers, will be the 20th title defense for Louis since he lifted the crown from Jimmy Braddock four and a half years ago.

Birdie Brands Set New Mark

Roll 1135 Game In Traveling League.

Bissman Birdie Brand bowlers yesterday set a new season's record in the N. C. O. traveling league when they turned in an 1135 game at Colony alleys against Port Clinton.

COACH CALLED UP

BOSTON —(INS)— With Major Leroy B. "Pat" Hanley called to active service with the marines, all indications today were that Walt Homer, varsity backfield coach, would be named temporary head coach of the Boston university football squad. Hanley, for eight years mentor of the Terriers, was ordered to report at Quantico, Va., next week.

Bear Owner Loses Money Although His Team Wins

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK—(AP)—In the name of sweet charity—and by way of proving that his Chicago Bears are just about the greatest gridiron collection ever turned loose to prowl— jumping George Halas' bankroll showed a $6,000 hole today for two All-Star games.

George, mind you, had a lot of satisfaction from the way those apples of his eye knocked over the National Pro-Football league All-Stars two years in a row, turning in a 35-24 decision yesterday in the Polo grounds for the second one. But the red ink is getting to be quite an item.

A year ago, Halas took his big Bears out to sunny California and blew $3,800 of his own while turning in a 28-14 win over the All-Stars. Yesterday George brought the thundering herd in to the local National league ballyard because of the war, and in the process of becoming a set of mud-covered snowmen the pro league champs rolled up the biggest score ever marked up in this four-year series.

The choice of freezing a few toes apiece or staying home by the fireside resulted in a cozy gathering of only 17,725 fans. This produced a net gate of $51,059 67, of which the Navy Relief fund got $25,529.84.

Out of the balance came some $3,800 rental for the park and $8,200 for the 28 All-Stars. What was left, after George paid his men and a few incidentals represented an estimated loss of a couple of thousand iron men. So, George won the ball game and proved his point about his Goliaths, but he paid for it.

For that matter, so did the All Stars. Don Hutson, Green Bay's pass-catching end, wound up with a broken rib; Frank Filchock, Washington ball-carrier, had two of the same; and Slingin' Sammy Baugh had to have four stitches taken in his jaw.

This, of course, was after Sammy had spear-headed the All-Star attack, pitching for all three of the All-Star touchdowns.

His job of elbowing brought the All-Stars back into the ball game for a bit in the second half, but never enabled them to draw even with the Bears, who bowled through for three touchdowns in the second quarter.

Gophers Play Northwestern

Game Will Cut Unbeaten Big Ten Clubs To Four.

CHICAGO—(AP)—In this bigger and better Big Ten basketball race that's currently being unfurled, no team has an easy schedule because each club must play each other at least once. And Minnesota and Northwestern are among the first to find out just how true this is

Victors in their opening clashes Saturday night, the Gophers and Wildcats will tangle tonight in Evanston and by the time they finish, the number of unbeaten teams in the league will be reduced to four at most, barring mishaps to Iowa (against Chicago), and Purdue (against Michigan).

At a glance, here's what happened Saturday night:

Illinois raced over Wisconsin, 55-40; Purdue scalded Chicago with a 64 point offensive, Minnesota sprinted to an early 21-5 lead over Ohio State and breezed on to a 56-42 victory; Iowa downed Michigan 40-34 and Northwestern

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Mt. Union Plays 3 Loop Tilts

Defends Laurels Against Kent, Bee Gees, Findlay.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Coach Bob Wright's Mount Union cagers, after confining their early-season activities to victories over two non-conference foes, step out this week to defend their Ohio league laurels by playing three loop foes.

The Mounts won both the Ohio conference and state titles last year, and they are "off and running" this season with conquests over Defiance and Ohio university.

Their three games this week—against Kent State, Bowling Green and Findlay — headline the 36-tilt schedule for Ohio college squads. Eleven of the 36 games are in the conference, with 15 of the loop clubs seeing action.

On the state-wide front it's all Toledo, the Rockets having won eight in a row, with Akron and Dayton deadlocked in the runner-up spot with four. Seven teams are undefeated, and eight haven't won a game, as they head into the 1942 drive.

John Carroll makes its first start of the season Thursday against Kent State, and then battles Wooster's tough Scot Saturday. Along with John Carroll, the Mount Union, Otterbein and Muskingum clubs will launch their conference campaigns this week.

Monday: Akron at Youngstown, Miami at Hanover.

Tuesday: Mount Union at Kent State, Findlay at Ohio U., Cedarville at Dayton, De Paul at Toledo.

Wednesday: Alumni at De Sales.

Thursday: John Carroll at Kent State, Wooster at Ohio Wesleyan, Lawrence Tech at Otterbein, Findlay at Adrian.

Friday: Mount Union at Bowling Green, Marietta at Otterbein, Akron at Baldwin Wallace, Ashland at Wilmington, Rio Grande at West Virginia Tech, and St. Josephs at Toledo.

Saturday: Ohio State at Purdue, John Carroll at Wooster, Heidelberg at Kenyon, Marietta at Wittenberg, Mount Union at Findlay, Ashland at Capital, Ohio Northern at Muskingum, Baldwin Wallace at Oberlin, Wilmington at Earlham, Ohio Wesleyan at Denison, Fenn at Hiram, Defience at Bluffton, Cincinnati at Miami, Marshall at Dayton, Kentucky at Xavier, Western Reserve at Michigan State, Case at Carnegie Tech, and Indiana Tech at Cedarville.

Sunday: Assumption at De Sales.

Vanderbilt Calls For Racing Board

NEW YORK — (INS) — Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, a young man who, unlike his older associates, thinks progress in racing constitutes more than a walk from a turf and field club box to the mutuel window, believes a national commission of racing men is necessary to preserve the sport during the war years and solve the many problems which must arise.

Al sounded the call today for the formation of such a group, which he would grant the same powers baseball gives to Commissioner Landis and pro football gives to Elmer Layden.

Vanderbilt said such a group could arrange extended racing schedules for inland courses for the benefit of those who face the threat of having their meetings cancelled by the war department, so that horsemen who were left stranded by the rulings would have a chance to race somewhere.

"GEMGLO" — Lantern Flashlight, is a warning, signal, guide and emergency utility light for home, motoring, hiking, bicycling and many other uses. Made of Transparent DuPont "Lucite", the entire tube gives off a bright red glow or a clear white light. The tip throws a beam as ordinary flashlights. Can be used as a flasher or steady light. Tests made by the Signal Corps of the War Department show that the red "GEMGLO" is visible at a range of 700 yards.

COTTON PICKERS' WAGES UP

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Arizona cotton pickers are receiving the highest wages paid them since the World war, an agriculture department survey revealed. An acute shortage of agricultural labor reportedly was responsible for the increase.

ANZACS LIKE SOFT DRINKS.

CANBERRA, Australia —(U.P.)— A check at Australia's biggest military camp revealed that soldiers drink six pints of soft drinks and milk to every five pints of beer. Average summer beer consumption per man was one-third of a pint.

WESTINGHOUSE JOINS UPWARD STOCK CLIMB

Five Billion Dollar Order For Armament Cheers Motor Industry.

NEW YORK—Rails and motors did fairly well on the recovery side of today's stock market but many leaders lacked the climbing ability displayed last week.

Moderate early improvement was posted for Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Chesapeake & Ohio, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Westinghouse and Allied Chemical.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were a bit backward.

On the business front, motors were aided by announcement this industry would receive $5,000,000,000 more in armament orders.

Boardrooms studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that "capacity is deemed insufficient to provide as much tonnage as can be fashioned into implements of war, with additional production to be brought into action as these needs increase."

Statistical quarters noted forecasts that while this year's national income would top the $100,000,000,000-mark as against the $90,000,000,000 level achieved in 1941, retail distribution, in terms of dollar value, probably would fall short of the showing made last year. Much of the income rise, it was believed, would be siphoned off by soaring taxes and bond purchases by individuals.

ONE KILLED

13 Injured as Train Piles Up After Hitting Auto.

PITTSTON, Pa.—(U.P.)—An army officer was in critical condition today from injuries suffered when the Lehigh Valley's crack "Night Liner" struck a stalled automobile during a snowstorm, killing one man and injuring 13 others.

Joseph Layzock, 40, Chicago, was killed when eight of the 17 cars on the Buffalo-to-New York flyer were derailed at a grade crossing six miles north of here yesterday.

Lieut. Harry Hawks, 28, Sayre, was the most seriously injured. His right leg was amputated last night at Pittston hospital.

The other injured were reported in "good condition."

DEATH REPORTED

SHELBY—Word has been received here of the death of Clyde S. Wrenn, former Shelby resident, at his home in Cleveland. He had been ill for the past year. Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. today in Cleveland.

slowed by icy streets. By noon, the temperature was about four degrees above zero.

Police said that the accident in which Coy escaped injury occurred at 5:22 a. m. His car was thrown 75 feet and was reduced to a total wreck. The freight train ran about 1,000 feet after the crash before it stopped. Coy told police he heard the train and jumped from the car.

The only other accident in the city in which injuries were reported occurred when autos driven by Howard Sowash, 155 South Foster street, and Albert Sleedy, Lexington R. D. 1, collided at East Luther place and South Willis avenue.

Alice Sowash, 155 South Foster street, and Marry Wheatcraft, Butler, passengers in the autos, suffered cuts and bruises in the collision.

Miss Roberta O'Hara, Seminole avenue, suffered a severe head laceration this morning on Trimble road when struck and knocked down by a hit-skip driver while she was on her way to school.

In another area accident, Mrs. Edna Milo, 31, of Ashland, R. D. 1, received a fractured nose and numerous cuts and bruises yesterday when the automobile she was driving on State Route 96, three miles west of Olivesburg, slid off the road and overturned.

John Burke, 41, of Tiro, suffered a fractured left leg yesterday when struck by an automobile while he was attempting to walk across State Route 545. He was taken to General hospital for treatment. Sylvester C. Kiser, Mansfield, R. D. 5, driver of the car, told state highway patrolmen that Burke walked in front of his auto and he was unable to avoid hitting him.

Loss of three tires, much more valuable in these days of tire rationing, was the most severe loss in an accident on State Route 224 near Nova.

Myrtle Hopewell, 27, and Christine Diehl, 24, both of Northumberland, Pa., suffered cuts and bruises when their car plunged into a ditch after they had tried unsuccessfully to pass a truck operated by Virgil Leonhardt, Bucyrus. The car will be out of commission unless the owneris able to obtain used or retreaded tires to replace the three damaged ones.

Two traffic accidents were reported to Shelby police over the past week-end. No one was injured, police records showed.

William Yosick, 27 South Grace street, reported to police that another machine had hit his car which was parked on Tucker avenue in Shelby Sunday. The driver of the automobile failed to stop after the accident, according to Yosick.

Cars driven by Clyde Baker of near Shelby and M. L. Rusk, Shelby, were involved in the other accident Sunday on East Main street. The Rusk machine was making a left hand turn onto a drive from Main street when hit in the rear by the Baker car. Both cars were badly damaged.

William Walter, 54, of Springfield, died in the collision of his car and another on route 70 near Troy; John Vimmerstedt, 21, of Youngstown, was killed in an automobile-passenger train mishap at a Struthers crossing, and an automobile fatally injured Harry Minor, 52, of Richmond, Ind., on Route 35 west of Eaton.

Killed Saturday in an automobile-train mishap at a suburban Cincinnati crossing was Norman Leaf, 24. William J. Watt, 56, Bainbridge race track watchman, was hurt fatally by a machine on Bainbridge road near the Cuyahoga-Geauga county line.

DIES IN FIRE

GLEN COVE, N. Y.—(INS)—Joseph Harvey Ladew, jr., 41, heir to a leather goods fortune amassed by his late father, died today in a fire that swept his 100-foot schooner, the Columbia.

Ladew, once active in motor boat and auto racing, customarily spent the winter aboard his vessel.

Tire Rationing Starts Today In Mansfield, Nation

ious communities of the county. This was being done on the basis of automobile registrations in the different municipalities

Bailey, who is chairman of Mansfield's tire rationing board, was unanimously selected county co-ordinator at a meeting in the county courthouse yesterday of the county's mayors, civilian defense chairman, and tire board officials. Named to the county advisory committee were M. S. Freeman, chairman of the Shelby tire board; Mayor Thomas Ziegler, Bellville, and Mayor R. K. Clark, South Boulevards.

When Mayor James B. Derr of Plymouth complained that his part of the county had no representation, he was added to the board subject to approval of Courtney Burton, state defense director.

Also in attendance at the meeting, which was called by county commissioners at the request of Burton, were:

Mayor W. J. Locke and Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, civilian defense committee chairman, Mansfield; Commissioners C. L. Mitchell, Ray Hout, Guy Stewart; Kenneth Darling, mayor of Lucas; J. P. Moore, defense committee chairman, and H. A. Vandervort, tire board chairman, Plymouth; Mayors Don H. Hamman of Shiloh, Russell E. Strong of Butler, William R. Morris of Shelby, and J. R. Gore of Lexington; and County Relief Director J. V. Finney.

The Mansfield board will function temporarily, from 2 to 4 p. m. daily, at the Chamber of Commerce offices in the Farmers bank building at Walnut and Park avenue west.

It will not be easy, even for those motorists who do fall within the limited classifications set up in the tire rationing machinery, to get new tires or tubes for their vehicles. According to the government regulations, present equipment practically will have to be in tatters before replacements are granted by certificate.

An eligible motorist who needs a new tire must fill out an application giving his own pedigree as well as the car's. Then a recognized inspector will take a look at the tire—keeping in mind the possibility that the casing may be retreaded or recapped. The inspector then states on the application that he has inspected the tires and tubes and lists their condition.

The local board then may or may not determine that the motorist needs a new tire. If approved, a certificate is issued which authorizes purchase of a new tire.

The mechanics of inspection in Mansfield had not been established today, but the details were being worked out by the local five-member board following a conference with a committee of tire dealers headed by Harry Buchan.

EATS POISON, DIES

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Mistaking rat exterminator for candy, John Laszko, 76, died at his home, police reported today, after eating several pieces. Laszko, whose vision was impaired, found the poison, which resembled chocolate, in the attic.

DIES OF BURNS

EAST LIVERPOOL —(AP)— A gas heater set fire to the cotton shirt of James L. Laneve, 22, and he was burned fatally. He was a newspaper dealer in nearby Chester, W. Va.
